POLITICAL SCIENCE AND HONORS CROSS-LISTED

CRN #	HONR CROSSLISTED	POLS CROSSLISTED	TITLE	DAY	TIME	ROOM	INSTRUCTOR	NOTE:
22252	HONR 385-002	POLS 317-001	State and Local Government	TR	9:30-10:45	MO 210	CROSS, PEARSON	State and Local Government is designed to introduce the student to government at the state and local levels. We will first examine relations between national and sub-national government before turning to the distribution and exercise of power in city and community. Although we will be studying the form, function and operation of state and local governments across the United States, we will return time and again to consider the operation of government in Louisiana. Guest speakers from public life will help us bridge the gap between theory and practice as will the field trip requirement.
22257	HONR 385-003	POLS 333-001	Politics and Media	MWF	10:00-10:50	MO 210	RIDGWAY, SHARON	"The First Amendment gives special freedoms to the media so that they can help secure an informed citizenry in our democracy. Is the mass media performing that function today, or are they just out to make a profit?"
22258	HONR 385-004	POLS 360-001	International Politics	TR	11:00-12:15	MO 210	MALOY, JASON	Introduction to the study of international relations by providing a framework for the comprehensive theoretical study of international relations including such areas as actors in the political system, power, alliances, use of force and war, and conflict resolution and arms control.
24200	HONR 385-005	POLS 364-001	International Security and Conflict	M	2:30-5:20	MO 110	TBA	Security and conflict in international relations covering international and civil wars, coercive diplomacy, international terror, weapons of mass destruction, nuclear proliferations, and international security institutions.
22276	HONR 385-006	POLS 370-001	Political Philosophy: Major Thinkers	TR	11:00-12:15	TBA	FROST, BRYAN	The purpose of this course is to introduce students to some of the most profound, challenging, and influential books in the history of ancient and modern political philosophy. Through careful and repeated readings of the material, regular attendance at lectures, and vigorous class discussion, students will learn how to uncover and to grapple with the issues these books address.
22277	HONR 385-007	POLS 375-001	Religion and Politics	MWF	9:00-9:50	MO 210	MALOYED, CHRISTIE	In the Western world, polite people tend not to talk about religion and politics amongst polite company. This is unfortunate as an unwillingness to discuss controversial issues fuels ignorance, and ignorance fuels misunderstanding, and in the extreme, misunderstanding fuels fear and bigotry. The purpose of this course is to ensure that our understanding of religion of politics is not gotten at second-hand and accepted without examination. Our main aim is to examine the way religion influences politics (and vice versa). We will undertake both an empirical and normative examination of this subject, asking what the relationship between church and state is and what it should be. During the semester, we will build a broad base of knowledge of how these issues have been approached historically, as well as prepare you to critically examine contemporary issues. We will spend time exploring public opinion related to religion and politics and think extensively about the ways social scientists measure and analyze such data.
22278	HONR 385-008	POLS 385-001	Moot Court	M(HY)	2:30-5:20	MO 209	HALL, MCKINZIE	Written and oral legal arguments at the appellate court level. Emphasis on experiential learning and competitive techniques based on U.S. Supreme Court rulings and practices.

22301	HONR 485-004	POLS 475-001	American Political Thought	TR	9:30-10:45	MO 106	FROST, BRYAN	This purpose of this course is to introduce students to some of the most thoughtful, challenging, and influential thinkers, writings, and debates in the history of American political thought. The course will focus exclusively on the American Founding and the writings of the Founders, from Franklin to Brutus.
22304	HONR 485-005	POLS 483-001	Civil Liberties	TR	12:30-1:45	MO 110	HALL, MCKINZIE	This class will study a subset of U.S. Constitutional Law: Civil Liberties and Civil Rights. Major focus will be on religious liberty and the freedom of speech, with some consideration of freedom from arbitrary discrimination, and a right of familial privacy/autonomy. This course is designed to give you an intensive understanding of some of your most important constitutional rights as citizens or residents of the U.S.
24213	HONR 485-007	POLS 485-001	Advanced Moot Court	M(HY)	2:30-5:20	MO 209	HALL, MCKINZIE	Advanced appellate advocacy seminar, requiring student participation in national undergraduate writing and speaking competition.

HUMANITIES AND HONORS CROSS-LISTED

CRN #	HONR CROSSLISTED	HUMN CROSSLISTED	TITLE	DAY	TIME	ROOM	INSTRUCTOR	NOTE:
22287	HONR 385-011	HUMN 300-001	CANCELLED
24123	HONR 385-012	HUMN 300-002	Asian & Pacific Island	TR	11:00-12:15	HLG 201	GONZALES, RANDY
This world literature course will explore the literature and film of island nations and states, including Fiji, Hawaii, Honshu (Japan), Okinawa (Japan), Luzon (Philippines), New Zealand, Singapore, and Taiwan. We will read novels, films, graphic novels, short stories, plays, poetry, and works of art that explore life on an island, as a physical existence and as a metaphor for the psychological isolation of individuals and communities. We will look at broad human themes of love, family, and community, and explore how an island environment, colonialism, and commercial development impact the characters and their stories. The course will feature a semester-long project where students explore the features of the novel and "island" film and literature as they create a Fan fiction version of an island novel. The following novels are being considered for the course: Shipwrecks by Akira Yoshimura (Japan), Tales of the Tikongs by Epeli Hau'ofa (Fiji), Cousins by Patricia Grace (New Zealand), All I Asking for is My Body by Milton Murayama (Hawaii), Wild Meat and the Bully Burgers by Lois-Ann Yamanaka (Hawaii), Rose, Rose, I Love You by Wang Chen-ho (Taiwan), and The Woman Who Had Two Navels by Nick Joaquin (Philippines).

Students in this course will study the creations of Franz Kafka, Albert Camus, Samuel Beckett, and Ingmar Bergman. Known for their ventures into Absurdity, questions regarding existence, and highly imaginative works, these writers of the 20th century share in their examination of reality in the face of irrationality and randomness. Texts will include Kafka's The Metamorphosis, The Plague by Camus, Waiting for Godot by Beckett, The Seventh Seal by Bergman, as well as other works by each.
24585	HONR 485-010		CANCELLED
24574	HONR 485-011	HUMN 400-002	Global Queerness	TR	9:30-10:45	HLG 404	BOURDEAU, LOIC
In this interdisciplinary course, we will study texts, discuss films, analyze YouTube videos and clips from television programs, and music videos in order to focus on sexualities as they intersect with race, gender, class, disability, nationality, and citizenship. We will focus on the transnational implications of queer studies and possibilities for change, creativity, and activism and ask how queer studies can open up ways of thinking critically about a variety of discourses. Materials include: Michel Foucault's History of Sexuality, RuPaul's Drag Race, Judith Butler's Gender Trouble, Jennifer Boylan's She's Not There, Political Debates, Haroun's Grigris, South Asian Hijras, Pascoe's Dude You're a Fag, etc.
24575	HONR 485-012	HUMN 400-003	King Arthur and His Court	TR	3:30-4:45	HLG 405	WRIGHT, MONICA
This course is a broad survey of the Arthurian legend in literature, art, history, legend, and film from its post-Roman beginnings, through its magnificent expression in the High Middle Ages, to our own modern times. Using an interdisciplinary framework, we will explore an array of texts and images to understand the Arthurian legend in its entirety. Among the texts studied will be Norris J. Lacey's and James J. Wilhelm's The Romance of Arthur: An Anthology of Medieval Texts in Translation.
